We-revert again to-day to Mr. Hennessy's budget. In dealing with the revenue, His Excellency entered exhaustively into details and afforded the colonists plenty of food for thought. The financial statement made by Mr. Hennessy cannot fail to be satisfactory. seeing that he was able to estimate next year's revenue at over a militon dollars, an estimate never equalled yet in the history of the Colony. Seeing, however, that the expendi- ing in Hollywood-road. ture of 1876 was higher than the revenue, and that the revenue was lower than that of the preceding year, the Governor has very rightly turned his attention to the sources from whence it is derived, with the object of stimuimprovements and alterations planned by Mr HENNESSY are to be carried out, it will be absolutely necessary that the revenue should derived from land and rents is growing yearly owing to the improvements that have been made and the augmented value of propert in the Colony. But from this source no very licences, however, as Mr. Hennessy points out, some substantial addition may be made. The spirit retailers probably pay the maximum, but the opium farm certainly does not yield what it might. The Governor showed that while the population of the Colony is palpably increasing, the amount paid by the opium farmer for his profitable monopoly is annually declining. Further, while the Chinese population of the Strags Settlements is considerably less than that of Hongkong the opium farms there are let for $25,000 is put down for the building, but it nearly eight times the sum paid by the is to be regretted that His Excellency was farmer here. One poor fellow excited my pity greatly; he was being led between two comrades, who had considerable difficulty in holding him up for his knees gave way, and his legs refused to give him any support. I went towards them, and pointed inquiringly to different places, to learn where his wound was for I could not see a trace of blood. Ghika, who had just joined us, came at my call, and asked the soldier in what place he was wounded and their answers soon changed my sympathy into loathing, for it turned out that he had never been hit at all, but was simply terrified out of his wits by a shell that had passed ever his head.
